HUERTA ENVOYS FEAR DEATH AT ZAPATA'S HANDS

Receive Letter Threatening
Death if They Try to Go South; Americans May Attempt Conciliation.

ARIZONA BORDER CLOSELY WATCHED

Almost the Entire Ninth Cavalry on Duty at the Boundary Line Near Douglas;
Conference in North.

MEXICO CITY, March 3.—Threatened with death if they tried to go south, the commissioners sent by the government to continue negotiations with Villa Zapata have returned from Oaxaca, which was sacked recently by Zapatistas.
At that place they received a letter from General de la Huerta, informing them that he and his followers had determined not to recognize the Huerta government and warning them to cease their efforts at reconciliation.
Since it appears that there is a split in the rebels' ranks in the south, the government is not indisposed to believe that Zapata might not be placated if he is reached, and is dispatching an envoy for that purpose. It is understood that a committee of Americans is willing to undertake the task.

Surprising Feared.

There is considerable disaffection in the state of Hidalgo and an uprising is feared if the federal government fails to satisfy the conflicting interests of the citizens of Hidalgo.
The committee of citizens of Hidalgo came to the capital to prefer charges against Ramon Rosales, the governor-elect. He is charged with having 70,000 pesos and with secret arms and ammunition belonging to the government. The committee also charges Rosales with the murder of Carlos Vidal Gomez, Rafael Reyes Alfonso Falco were executed by Rosales's orders.
General Alberto Yarza has been named military governor of Hidalgo. A settlement of internal political affairs there. Four hundred tax workers who were denied permission to hold a public demonstration in memory of ex-President Madero, started rioting this afternoon, but were dispersed by the police. One factory, La Colina, has been closed as a result of employees declaring a strike.

Troops Sent North.

The war department dispatched to the north this afternoon Colonel Antonio Rivero, in command of an infantry force numbering 300, with two machine guns and four machine guns. This was taken because of the activity of a band of rebels to the north of Matamoros, who have proclaimed themselves partisans of Venustiano Carranza, the rebel governor of Coahuila. The headquarters are 100 miles to the east on the line of the National Highway.
The rebels have burned several houses on the Mexican Central north of Matamoros. The new rebels have dubbed "Carra-Naistas." Alberto Fuentes, the ex-governor of Aguas Prietas, who was captured and taken to the capital by federal troops the night before, declares that he fully recognized the government of Provisional President Huerta from the beginning and that he had been mischievously misrepresented as a rebel by personal enemies. De Fuentes remains a prisoner.

HOLE REGIMENT ON PATROL DUTY

DOUGLAS, Ariz., March 3.—As a preliminary means of preventing a repetition of the skirmish Sunday between Mexican and Mexican troops, Colonel Boyle tonight has nearly the whole of the Ninth cavalry on border patrol duty. He event sent a machine-platoon to the international line.
There was some firing near the line today. It proved to be caused by a report that the negro troopers to intercept what was supposed to be a detachment of Mexican troops crossing the line. It proved to be a party of Mexicans firing firewood with pack animals. No one was wounded.
Colonel Guilfoyle sent to Washington a report supplementary to that of yesterday. It is said that a report contains a copy of a message was found in the possession of a messenger arrested Saturday from

TAFT'S LAST DAY IS FULL OF INCIDENT

Greets Successor as President and Shakes Hands With William J. Bryan.
BIDS STAFF FAREWELL
Tells Visitors It Was One of the Happiest Days in His Life.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—President Taft's last day in the White house was one of his busiest. As a working day it did not last more than ten hours, but it was crowded with unusual events, full of incidents that fall to the man who sits in the White house, and crowned with pleasanties. The president shook hands with several hundred citizens and officials of the government; received scores of telegrams from friends all over the world; signed his name to pile after pile of pictures and letters, and held three receptions. He quitted the room he has occupied for four years in the executive offices with a smile and without a backward glance, and with many a pleasant recollection of the days he has spent there. He met his old-time friends of the Washington diplomatic corps and the justices of the supreme court in the White house, and last of all he gave the first formal welcome in that mansion to the president-elect and Mrs. Wilson.

Guests at Dinner.
Tonight the president and Mrs. Taft were guests at a private dinner given by Miss Mabel Boardman. Altogether, as Mr. Taft told visitors today, it was one of the happiest days of his life, and the regret he may have had over things he was unable to accomplish was more than offset by the remembrance of the pleasant paths he has walked. The president received the president-elect and Mrs. Wilson at 6 o'clock tonight. They came wheeling up the curved driveway to the White house in a cloud of gray dust. Colonel Spencer Cosby, chief aide to the president, was their escort and the president had sent his own touring car to bring them through the crowded thoroughfares. A few hundred persons gathered in front of the mansion and cheered when they recognized the next president and his wife.

Greets Successor.
On the bronze seal of the United States imbedded deep in the marble floor of the main hallway President Taft was waiting to receive his guests. He offered his arm to Mrs. Wilson and escorted the next "first lady of the land" to the quiet of the green room. Mrs. Taft and Miss Helen, the only members of the retiring president's family in town, came down the stairway from the private part of the White house a few moments later and the president-to-be, his wife and the president who quits tomorrow and his wife and daughter, talked alone.

Bryan Calls.
William Jennings Bryan was one of the last distinguished visitors who saw the president in his office. Colonel Bryan came unannounced late in the afternoon.
"Here's something I want to show you," said the president, as he grasped his visitor by the arm and led him to the cabinet room.
"This," continued the president, "is the cabinet room."
Mr. Bryan sat down in the chair of the secretary of state, but he made no comment.
"I just dropped in to say farewell," he told the newspaper men as he departed. "I have many Republican friends as well as those in the Democratic party."
Before he left his office for the last time, the president shook hands with the members of the executive office staff.

ANOTHER STRIKE VOTE TO BE TAKEN AT ONCE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—A third referendum vote will be taken this week in the dispute between the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company and the electrical workers in its employ. New offers were made by the company today during a conference with Eugene K. Smith, vice president of the Pacific district council of the International Union of Electrical Workers.
Smith did not disclose the proposed terms, but said they would be submitted to the various locals, which extend through five western states and include about 2500 men. The men have twice rejected the proposals of the company.

Inauguration Weather

WASHINGTON, March 3.—There will be no rain or snow or freezing temperature to mar the inauguration of Woodrow Wilson as president of the United States, according to the prediction of the experts of the weather bureau. A special inauguration bulletin issued by the bureau tonight said:
"The indications are that the weather at Washington on Tuesday will be fair in the morning, cloudy in the afternoon and become unsettled and somewhat colder at night. There is very little probability of either rain or snow. Temperature during the day will be moderate, probably in the forties."

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The demonstration of the suffragists here in Washington today to impress upon the incoming administration the demand of women for the franchise deserves a place in the history of civilization as one of the most wonderful pageants ever witnessed by mortal eyes.

A quarter of a million people beheld it. Some cheered hoarsely and enthusiastically. Some laughed at the misguided enthusiasm that lay behind it all. Not one human being, however, failed to admire the art and skill that has devised and executed the whole affair, nor was there a single man who failed to find delight in the multi-colored riot of feminine charm and beauty that constituted both the tableaux upon the treasury steps and the parade down Pennsylvania avenue.

The outgoing administration was busy winding up its affairs in the White house and did not see it. The incoming administration was busy consulting with statesmen and politicians and did not see it. The congress was in session passing bills with its expiring breath and while the music of the bands mingled with the voices of the orators the congress did not see the parade. So it is impossible to say whether as a political demonstration the affair had an immediate political effect. But the outgoing president and the incoming president and the congress all missed a unique sight and those who beheld it will ever carry it in their memory.

Inspiring Spectacle.

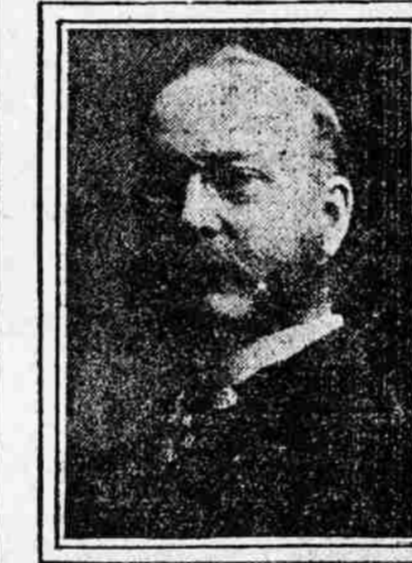

To describe it is a difficult task. It is over now and the thousands of women who took part in it are home, tired, excited and flushed with triumph. It is only a memory that remains—a memory of femininity, of color and of a laughing consciousness of power. The demonstration of power was most effective of all. Not political or strategic power, you must bear in mind, but power of planning and of organization and of execution. To the ladies who conceived and planned the details, both of the tableaux and the parade, I doff my hat in enthusiastic admiration. In the palmiest day of the Roman empire, when people were hungry for spectacles, no artist ever dreamed of a spectacle as beautiful as this one today.

Beautiful Beyond Compare.

The steps of the treasury building was the stage for the tableaux. A sea of human beings surged around as in a vast amphitheater. Then there appeared groups of beautiful women clad in dazzling colors, who assumed attitudes and poses that were meant to express various sentiments.

JEROME EMPLOYED TO FIGHT THAW CASE

Matteawan Superintendent
Swears Release of Slayer of White Dangerous.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 2.—Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, still is of unsound mind and his release from the Matteawan State hospital would be dangerous to the public peace and safety, according to an affidavit made today to Attorney General Carmody by Dr. Roy L. Leak, acting superintendent of the hospital.

The affidavit will be used as the state's return to the writ of habeas corpus obtained last Saturday directing the state to produce Thaw before Justice Gleason in New York Thursday and show cause why Thaw should not be given his freedom.
At a conference today between the attorney general, Colonel Joseph F. Scott, superintendent of state prisons, and Dr. Leak, it was decided to submit the rules and regulations governing the inmates of Matteawan, with a view to curtailing the privileges heretofore extended to Thaw. All rules which might tend to operate in favor of Thaw will be abrogated.

Attorney General Carmody again has retained William T. Jerome, former district attorney of New York county, as special counsel to represent the state in the new proceedings begun in behalf of Thaw.
The investigation by Governor Sulzer's committee of inquiry of the scandal surrounding the alleged attempt to obtain Thaw's release has been temporarily halted owing to the illness of Dr. Austin B. Flint, who is to give his testimony.

CASTELLANE-GOULD MARRIAGE ANNULLED

PARIS, March 4.—A dispatch to the Journal says the papal tribunal of Rota has annulled the marriage of Count Bond de Castellane with Anna Gould, now the Duchess de Talleyrand, on the ground that Miss Gould showed by a declaration she made shortly before the marriage that she did not accept the indissolubility of the Christian marriage.

ATTACKS POLICY OF THE UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, March 3.—An attack on the policy pursued by the United States in patrolling the Mexican border during the Mexican revolutions was made in the senate today by Senator Fall of New Mexico, a member of the special investigating committee that has conducted a recent investigation into border conditions.
Senator Fall declared that the committee in its investigation along the border for over a year.
Senator Fall reviewed in some detail the testimony taken by the special committee of which Senator Smith of Michigan was chairman. He said that scores of witnesses resident in Mexico testified to the fact that they had been attacked in sending mail into Nicaragua, he declared.

FRIENDS ANNOUNCE WILSON'S CABINET

Franklin K. Lane Scheduled to Receive Interior Portfolio;
Bryan Secretary of State.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Though President-elect Wilson will not send the names of his cabinet to the senate until tomorrow afternoon, authoritative information as to its personnel came from members of his official family when he arrived today. Washington now accepts the following as constituting the final selections of the president-elect.

Secretary of state—William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska.
Secretary of treasury—William G. McAdoo of New York.
Secretary of war—Lindley M. Garrison of New Jersey.
Attorney general—James McReynolds of Tennessee.
Postmaster general—Representative Albert Burleson of Texas.
Secretary of the navy—Josephus Daniels of North Carolina.
Secretary of the interior—Franklin K. Lane of California.
Secretary of agriculture—David F. Houston of Missouri.
Secretary of commerce—Representative William C. Redfield of New York.
Secretary of labor—Representative William B. Wilson of Pennsylvania.

All Doubt Removed.

Many of these names have been known for several days and chief interest centered in the revelation of those who would receive the portfolios of war, agriculture and interior.
The selection of Vice Chancellor Garrison of New Jersey to be secretary of war is in line with the idea the president-elect has always had that the secretary of war should be a man of unusual administrative ability. Supervision of the island possessions of the United States, including the Philippines and the Panama canal zone, will be important factors under the new administration and this burden will fall on the head of the war department. Vice Chancellor Garrison is a close friend of Mr. Wilson and is regarded as one of the best men New Jersey has ever elevated to the bench.

CALLS UPON TAFT AT WHITE HOUSE

Inaugural Exercises Today Will Be the Most Extensive in the History of the Country;
Continuous Stream of Visitors Pouring Into the National Capital.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey has come to Washington to be inaugurated tomorrow the twenty-eighth president of the United States. His was a triumphal entry, the pentup Democratic enthusiasm of sixteen years concentrating seemingly at the gateway of the nation's capital and bursting forth in a joyful acclaim.
Through a lane of Princeton university students and surrounded by cheering thousands, the president-elect and members of his family were hastened from the station, escorted by an official reception committee to their hotel.

Wilson Looks Happy.

The dome of the capital glistened under a bright sun as they passed and the city below presented a panorama of patriotic color as they viewed it from the hill. Smiling in the glow of a kindly day and bowing to the plaudits of the people, the former president of Princeton university, who rose through the governorship of New Jersey to the highest office in the land, looked happy.

Within less than two hours after his arrival, Mr. Wilson, for the first time in his life, crossed the threshold of the White house and grasped the hand of William Howard Taft, president of the United States for a few hours longer. With Mrs. Wilson, the president-elect was escorted to the home which will be theirs tomorrow by Col. Spencer Cosby shortly before 6 o'clock in the evening. The president and Mrs. Taft awaited their coming and extended them their cordial greeting and the keys to home of presidents.

Family Reunion.

Before visiting the White house, the Wilsons received the vice president-elect and Mrs. Marshall, Governor Sulzer of New York, Governor Pothier of Rhode Island and staff, and a few personal friends. First, however, immediately after their arrival at the hotel, the president-elect, Mrs. Wilson and their daughters joined in an informal reunion with other members of the family, who have gathered from different parts of the country. An entire floor of the hotel is occupied by the members of the family, who dined later in the evening as the guests of John Wilson of Franklin, Pa., cousin of the future president.
Tonight, as an alumnus of Princeton university, the man who is to guide the destinies of the nation was the honor guest of the alumni of his alma mater at a smoker. There he rubbed elbows with other class mates and boys who had grown up under his guidance. He left the last of his functions as a private citizen at a late hour to seek a few hours' rest before the event that will mark the climax of his career tomorrow.

Record-breaking Crowds.

Nothing has been left undone to make the inaugural ceremonies the most extensive in the history of the country. The city was filled tonight with enthusiasm and thousands paraded the electric emblazoned streets. Constantly arriving throngs of visitors, military organizations and marching clubs served to keep excitement alive far into the night.
President-elect Wilson has reserved a few minutes tomorrow in which to greet newspaper men of the country. At 9 o'clock he will receive them at his hotel. At 2:30 he will receive the inaugural committee of congress, Senators Crane, Everman and Bacon and Representatives Mc-
